Music Changing Lives Premieres Video for Anti-Tobacco Youth Campaign

By Naomi K. Bonman

and what better way to do then through music and art.

On Saturday, June 22, Music Changing Lives (MCL) premiered their new music video, "Jewels Not Juulz", featuring artist Tiana Phipps. The premiere took place at the MCL headquarters in Redlands.

"We are an organization that focuses on reducing the prevalence of tobacco in our communities," San Bernardino County Tobacco Control Program representative, Amber, stated. "This project was made possible because of the collaboration with MCL. Continue doing what you are doing. The youth is the reason we are here; the youth is the reason for all of us."

The song was curated to raise awareness about the harmful effects of tobacco use and the epidemic of vaping among teens. CEO and Founder of Music Changing Lives, Josiah Bruny, combined forces with the Coalition for a Tobacco-Free San Bernardino County to use music and art as a way to reach the youth and the community.

The event was well attended with community members, MCL youth and staff, and elected officials of San Bernardino County. In addition to the live premiere of the video, there were refreshments, networking and a tour opportunity of the MCL recording studio and art lab.

Back in the day there was the D.A.R.E. program and then there was TRUTH. Both were initiatives that rallied against drugs and tobacco use among minors. However, even though these were strong campaigns, these brands are rarely seen in the communities anymore which is why it is critical for community organizations to create their own campaigns,

As Global Markets for Generic Drugs Fail, Poor People Pay the Price

Healthy competition from generic drugs is often held up as a "cure" for high drug prices — a shared concern across rich and developing countries alike. For many low- and middle-income countries, however, a new report from the Center for Global Development that we co-authored shows that global markets for generic medicines are failing, leaving the poorest patients without safe and affordable essential medicines.
