San Bernardino Community Unites to Support Hometown Hero Jayden Daniels in his NFL Rookie Year

By Angela M. Cogg

On September 29, 2024, the eyes of San Bernardino were focused on State Farm Stadium, in Glendale, Arizona, where their hometown hero, Jayden Daniels, took the field as the starting quarterback for the Washington Commanders. In just his third NFL game as a rookie, Daniels faced off against the Arizona Cardinals, but it wasn't just any ordinary game—it was a day of pride and celebration for his family, friends, and fans from his hometown. A Rising Star leadership, and work ethic on the field at Cajon earned him a scholarship to Arizona State University (ASU) and played three seasons, where he became one of the most electrifying quarterbacks in college football. He later transferred to Louisiana State University (LSU) where he exploded in front of the world and won the Heisman in 2023. After a successful collegiate career, Daniels was drafted by the Washington Commanders in the 2024 NFL Draft, marking the beginning of a new chapter for the talented signal-caller.

California Community Colleges Launch Season 2 of 'EDUCATE. ELEVATE.' Podcast to Support Black Student Success

By Bo Tefu and Antonio Ray Harvey | California Black Media

The California Community Colleges' ICanGoToCollege.com campaign has launched the second season of its EDUCATE. ELEVATE. podcast series, which focuses on promoting Black student enrollment and retention. Season 1 had over 60,000 listeners, and the new season aims to build on this success by featuring inspiring student stories and expert advice.

The first episode of the new season brings together former foster youth Kevion Louis-Hernandez, Mt. San Antonio College alum; and Junely Merwin, a NextUp Project Expert, with host Danny Morrison. The conversation explores the challenges foster youth face and highlights the transformative impact of community college programs like NextUp, which help students overcome obstacles to reach their higher education and career goals.

"This season continues our commitment to addressing barriers faced by Black students and increasing equitable access to higher education," said Paige Marlatt Dorr, Director of Communications and Marketing for California Community Colleges.

EDUCATE. ELEVATE. is part of a broader initiative to reverse the significant enrollment declines experienced by Black students during the pandemic. Black student enrollment dropped by 25% system-wide between 2019 and 2022, but outreach efforts and support services have helped increase enrollment by nearly 15% over the last two years, bringing the total to almost 114,000 Black students in the 2023-24 academic year.

The podcast series features candid discussions on overcoming systemic barriers, educational resources, and strategies for student success. Season 2 offers a new visual style

Assemblymember Akilah Weber Applauds Signing of Bill Securing Milk for Infants in Intensive Care

—By Bo Tefu and Antonio Ray Harvey | California Black Media

Assemblymember Akilah Weber

On Sept. 29, Gov. Gavin Newsom signed a bill authored by Assemblymember Akilah Weber (D-La Mesa) that ensures babies in neonatal intensive care units receive donor breast milk vital for their health.

Under new guidelines set by Assembly Bill (AB) 3059, medical facilities will provide families donor milk for their babies regardless of restrictions their medical insurance might have.

Weber said that the bill represents the final step in expanding access to donor milk for all families, making a difference in health outcomes for newborns and their families. AB 3059 defines donor milk as “essential” under commercial insurance coverage – a designation that Medi-Cal requires as well for payment.

“Addressing disparities in health care starts with ensuring access to essential nutrition,” said Weber. “With the mortality rate for Black infants being three times higher than that of white infants, it’s crucial we address health care inequities beginning at birth.”

Dr. Michael V. Drake, president of the University of California, thanked

SBRAAC's September Prayer Breakfast: A Call to Unity and Community Impact

By Angela M. Coggs

On September 7, 2024, the San Bernardino Riverside Area Alumnae Chapter (SBRAAC) of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc., hosted a heartwarming and inspiring prayer breakfast that brought together members and community leaders under the theme, “Coming Together in Love to Reach, Restore, and Impact Our Communities.” Held at the Sterling Natural Resource Center in San Bernardino, this spiritually uplifting event centered on fostering love and unity to make a positive difference in the local community.

Dr. Stephanie Davis-Carruth, SBRAAC 1st Vice President, who served as the Mistress of Ceremonies, opened the event by welcoming everyone with grace and setting the tone for a morning filled with reflection and inspiration. An engaging Ice Breaker activity presented by SFeledier “Let” Thrower followed, bringing attendees together in a lighthearted but meaningful way, helping to establish a sense of unity among participants.

The event was enriched by two moving musical performance by soloist Corinthian Buffington and Yolanda Dancy, whose powerful voice captivated the audience. Both songs created a contemplative atmosphere, enhancing the sense of spiritual community in the room.

Report: Number of Black Students in Dual Enrollment Programs Decline

By Bo Tefu and Antonio Ray Harvey | California Black Media

Gov. Newsom Approves Key Legislation Backed by Black Caucus in 2024 Session

By Joe Bowers | California Black Media

Participation in dual enrollment high school and community college programs has increased among students in California. However, the percentage of Black and Latino high school students enrolled in dual enrollment programs has decreased in recent years, according to a study conducted by researchers at the University of California Davis.

California policymakers and educators are integrating dual enrollment as a key mechanism for improving educational attainment, ensuring students have equal access to postsecondary opportunities. State legislators increased funding to expand dual enrollment programs under Assembly Bill 288 authored by Assemblymember Chris Holden (D-Pasadena), a law that helps facilitate collaboration between high schools and community colleges. California made an annual investment of $200 million for high school students. The state also allocated $10 million for the STEM Pathways Grant program that supports creating 6-year programs for students to graduate with a high school diploma and an associate degree in science, technology, engineering, or mathematics within 2 years of graduating high school.

Despite California's investment over the years, the study revealed that the number of Black and Latino high school students enrolled in commu-

In 2024, the 12-member California Legislative Black Caucus (CLBC), introduced nearly 600 bills aimed at improving the lives of all Californians, many with a particular focus on addressing inequities faced by Black citizens. Of these bills, Gov. Gavin Newsom signed 230 into law and vetoed 50. The remaining bills either failed to pass out of committee, were rejected in one of the chambers, or were withdrawn by their authors for possible reintroduction later. CLBC's legislative victories reflect their commitment to creating a more equitable California for Black residents across areas like education, healthcare, housing, and criminal justice reform. The following are some of the key bills taking effect on Jan. 1, 2025.

Rep. Aguilar Announces $531,000 for Affordable Housing in San Bernardino

SAN BERNARDINO, CA – Today, Rep. Pete Aguilar announced $531,000 in grant funding for two nonprofit housing assistance programs in San Bernardino to address the affordable housing crisis.

The funding comes as part of the U.S. Department of Housing & Urban Development's NeighborWorks America's Fiscal Year (FY) 2024 Grants. Neighborhood Partnership Housing Services (NPHS) will receive $327,000 in grant funding, and Neighborhood Housing Service of the Inland Empire (NHSIE) will receive $204,000 in grant funding.

"This funding is a step forward in further addressing the affordable housing crisis that continues to put the American Dream of homeownership out of reach for so many families in San Bernardino," said Rep.

Pete Aguilar. "I appreciate the efforts of organizations like NPHS and NHSIE, which work at the forefront of ensuring that families have access to safe, affordable homes. Together, we're building more housing, stronger communities and brighter futures for our residents."

"The funding from NeighborWorks America empowers NPHS to uplift underserved communities across the Inland Valley," said Clemente Mojica, NPHS CEO.

"This support will enable NPHS to create affordable and stable housing for low-to-moderate income families, fostering opportunities where all families can achieve housing and economic security."

"This federal allocation is a game-changer for our community," said Kailin Scott Peoples, CEO/Executive Director of NHSIE. "It will allow us to significantly expand our efforts to continue services while pursuing new Distractions, Distractions, Distractions!

Jesus said to them, don't you understand this parable? The deception of distractions? [Mark 4:1-8; Mark 4: 13-17; Mark 4:21-25; Mark 4:26-32]. All that you are seeing and are hearings are distractions from the real reality. Look carefully how you walk, not as unwise but as wise [Ephesians 5:15-16].

Remember what the Weeping Prophet Jeremiah said in the Old Testament [Jeremiah 9:6]... "You live in the midst of deception." So be like, Nehemiah and see through their ploy [Nehemiah 6:3]. Let no one deceive you [Matthew 24:4] because distraction from reality will lead you to Hell.

Understand how the devil wages war. First, he will turn your attention from God through distractions, and second, he will make you doubt through deception. Know that distractions and subtleties are one of the major tools that Satan uses to get as many souls that he can. Satan is a master deceiver. He deceived one third of the angels to follow him. He deceived Eve. He deceived Judas and many others. I tell you, we must choose to focus on following the Lord, no matter the distraction.

innovative approaches to provide safe, stable housing for those who need it most. We're deeply grateful for this investment, which recognizes that affordable housing is fundamental to the health and prosperity of our entire society. With these funds, we can build more than just homes - we're building hope, opportunity, and a stronger future for countless families."

The NeighborWorks America funding supports the following programs for low-to-moderate-income families and small businesses: affordable housing developments, down payment assistance programs, neighborhood revitalization projects, community wealth-building initiatives, environmental sustainability programs and services for small businesses.

Black Twin Sisters Who Grew Up in Foster Care Launch Nonprofit to Help Other Foster Kids

NATIONWIDE — Cherry and Sherry Wilmore, African American twins from Houma, Louisiana, who grew up in foster care, are now giving back to their community in a big way. Determined to pay it forward, they have launched Cherish Times Two, their very own non-profit that helps foster kids who come from vulnerable communities.

Raised in Houma, Louisiana, the Wilmore sisters are affectionately known as “everybody’s favorite twins” for their positive energy and generous spirits. Their journey from foster children to community leaders has inspired many, including Terrebonne Parish Sheriff Tim Soignet, who shared, “I love them both dearly, and I’m very blessed that they’re part of our community.”

Cherry and Sherry’s childhood was marked by challenges, as they spent 12 years in foster care, moving between two families. Despite the difficulties, they fondly remember their foster parents, Anna and Albert McMahon, who provided them with love and stability. “We didn’t even realize we were in foster care until we left their home at 10,” the twins said. Though they were up for adoption a few times, it never worked out, but their foster families made a lasting impact.

According to CBS News, at 10 years old, the sisters were separated and placed in group homes, where a psychologist once labeled them a “danger to society.” But thanks to the love and guidance of their later foster mother, Louise Navy Wallace, the twins reunited and flourished. Wallace’s belief that twins needed family and structure helped shape their path. Her words, “Foster care is just a chapter, not your story,” stayed with Cherry and Sherry throughout their lives.

One of the key initiatives of their non-profit organization is donating laptops to college-bound foster care youth, helping them succeed in school. Describing themselves as innovators, educators, and influencers, their friends see them as much more. Ariel Triggs, a close friend, called them “a ray of sunshine.”

The twins have been featured on several shows including the Jennifer Hudson Show where they spoke about their foster care experience and how it shaped their mission to give back. During their interview with CBS News, their half-brother, Jeremy Wilmore, surprised them after 10 years apart. He expressed pride in his sisters’ resilience

nity college courses has declined since 2020. The enrollment gap between Asian-Pacific Islander students, who have the highest participation rate, and Black students doubled from 7 % in 2019 to 14.5% in 2022.

“For students whose life circumstances, such as economic hardship, may inhibit educational pursuits, opportunities to enroll in community college while in high school may be less accessible,” researchers stated.

Participation rates in dual enrollment programs are lower among socio-economically disadvantaged students, English learners, youth in foster care, and students with disabilities compared to their counterparts. The research study attributed the steady decline in enrollment rates to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Assemblymember Akilah Weber Applauds Signing of Bill

Weber and Newsom for their leadership.

“Creating greater access to donor milk is vital for the health and well-being of newborns and their families,” said Drake.

Drake said that the University of California looks forward to supporting vulnerable families

According to UC data, breast milk reduces some health risks in infants such as necrotizing enterocolitis, a life-threatening bowel disease that occurs 60% more frequently among Black and Latino children.

AB 3059 lifts a restriction that required hospitals to have a license to give donor milk to patients. The new law only requires that the milk be obtained from accredited sources such as the University of California Health Milk Bank.

Newsom Approves Legislation

come communities have access to critical early childhood education.

AB-1113 by Assembly-member Kevin McCarty (D-Sacramento) expands the California Longitudinal Pupil Achievement

Data System (CAL-PADS) to include data on expanded learning opportunity programs. This bill improves the state's ability to track student outcomes and offer targeted support to underrepresented students, including Black students, addressing systemic inequities in the education system.

A Call to Unity and Community delivered by Pastor Samuel J. Casey, was the true highlight of the morning. Pastor Casey, Senior Pastor of New Life Christian Church in Fontana, California, and the executive director of Congregations Organized for Prophetic Engagement (C.O.P.E.), offered a stirring and motivational message. His words energized the entire room, reminding everyone of the power of love, faith, and action in making lasting impacts in their communities. Pastor Casey emphasized the importance of community solidarity, calling for each individual to be a force for restoration and positive change in their neighborhoods.

and accomplishments, saying, “It’s a blessing to see what they’ve done with their lives despite all the struggles.”

As Cherry and Sherry continue to inspire others, they remind people that support can come from unexpected places.

“Sometimes, your family may not be biological, but find those people, and they’ll definitely be your family,” they said.
